

Inside the Daf

A סָרִיס is a man who is not able to father children. If a man develops certain signs by the age of twenty, we may assume he is a סָרִיס and unable to have children. The lists some of these signs and they appear in the graphic, below.

The "Eight Month" Baby

In the times of the גָּמֶרָא, it was rare for a baby to live if it was born after an eight month pregnancy. Such a baby was so frail that even moving it a bit may cause a great danger to its life.

In order not to injure the baby, the גָּמֵרָא says that its mother must lean over the infant in order to nurse it. It is important for the mother to nurse the child. Otherwise, the build-up of milk in her body can cause a danger to her life, too.

גבי says that not all babies born in the eighth month of pregnancy will die. If certain parts of the child's body, such as hair and fingernails, are underdeveloped, רָבִי says that this is a sign the infant will probably not survive.

A-Mith-Moment

"Today," said Rabbi Mermelfelderstein, "we will learn about..."

"What will we learn about?" interrupted Michael. "Will it take a long time? Is it hard?"

"We will learn about the importance of..."

"How important is it? Is it very important. Will it be on the test?"

"Michael," said the rabbi, "it is important to first listen to what your teacher is saying before asking questions. We see that the sages of the Talmud would first listen to everything their teachers said and only afterwards would they try to understand it. That's why רב יוֹסֶף says 'I heard אַמִי say this [teaching] but I didn't know what it was.' We first listen and then we try to understand."

An אַיִלוּנִית is a woman who has qualities like a man and cannot bear children. For example, her voice is thick and one cannot tell whether it is the voice of a man or a woman.

> Rashi says that if a mother does not nurse her baby, she poses a danger to herself. According to many scientific studies, nursing decreases the risk of breast cancer and ovarian cancer in women. (Collaborative Group on Hormonal Factors in Breast Cancer, Lancet, 2002)
